Editor's letter

Emma Kennedy emmak@thegmcgroup.com

The British are famously mocked for endlessly discussing the weather, but you only have to spend a week in the British springtime to witness the full spectrum of temperatures and conditions to justify all those conversational. Only in the UK could the weather forecast reliably inform me that one day's temperature could vary 'from early to late teens' which to my mind translates as 'warm yet quite chilly'.

The problem with this is that by spring I am looking longingly at my summer wardrobe and desperate to break free from the heavier knits of winter. Cue this month's gallery. In order to indulge my penchant for wearing summer dresses as early as possible in the year, an array of good looking cardigans, sweaters and light jackets is a must.

In contrast to last month's bright collection, June's gallery is an altogether calmer affair with a soft, muted color palette. From Martin Story's gorgeous Cable Front cardigan (page 22) to Stan Brown's Bell Sleeve shirt (page 30), each garment is designed to enhance any summer outfit (and keep the cool air at bay). For the perfect stand-alone piece Pat Menchini has created the gorgeous Waterfall top (page 23). Knitted in Monos del Uruguay lace weight yarn, its delicate feel combined with a pretty lace stitch creates a lovely, eye-catching top.

We are kicking off this month with a new feature, 'A week in the life', focusing on various people with one thing in common: wool. Lifting the lid on all aspects of the wool industry, this month Heather Webb, a Biodiversity officer and co-creator of the Nude Ewe, gives us a fascinating insight into her unusual job (page 40). Also taking a look behind the scenes this issue is Claire Kelly who talks to the curator of Belgium's Mому museum about Unraveled, their new knitwear exhibition (possibly the largest in Europe), and what it takes to curate something that size.

And finally: to steak or not to steak...? If that is the question then take a look at Fiona Morris's 'how-to' on using steaks to stitch, cut and finish a garment (page 46) and her accompanying pattern, a lovely Fairisle vest top that can be worn with or without something underneath it... depending, of course, on the weather!

Strawberry Tea

Breast Cancer Care is back this summer with their delightful Strawberry Tea campaign. Strawberries are iconic symbols of British summer and we don't need much encouragement to enjoy them, so why not get involved, it's so easy! Make some tasty treats and hold a bake sale, afternoon tea, office tea break or picnic. Or do something different, like teaching assistant Moira Wilson, who has been holding Strawberry Tea at her school for four years and raised £350 last year by knitting and selling her cute strawberry brooches. To help you get started we have Moira's strawberry brooch pattern free to download from our website www.knittinginstitute.co.uk. You can also receive a free Strawberry Tea fundraising pack full of strawberry recipes and tips to make your event the highlight of the summer by registering at www.breastcancercare.org.uk/strawberry or calling 0870 164 9422.

Woolsack 2012

You'll be hard-pressed to avoid the 2012 Olympics from now until next year as London gears up for hosting duties, so if the possibility of you taking home a medal (or even getting tickets!) is but a distant dream there is another way you can get involved. Sue Blocker of Blocker Designs has started a project, Woolsack 2012, that aims to give every athlete competing in the London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games a personal gift of a cushion made from British wool as a commemorative memento. Yep, that's a lot of cushions – 20,000 to be precise – which is where you come in!

Sue is determined to make this a national effort and is encouraging schools, colleges, designers, community groups, WIs and all sorts to get involved. Each cushion should be a standard 40 x 40cm square and must be made using British wool. Use up your stash, recycle or take advantage of Blocker Yarns, Jamieson & Smith and many of the other British breeds yarn companies that will be offering a discount to those involved.

For more information and free cushion patterns visit www.blockeryarns.co.uk. You can also follow Woolsack 2012 on www.ravelry.com in the 'Blocker and Beyond' group or on Facebook by searching 'Woolsack 2012'.

Shut that door!

Here are the three fantastic winners of the 'Design a drought exclusion' competition that ran in our December issue.

1st prize

First prize went to Jennifer Billingham of Sleaford for her cute 'Beach cabins'.

2nd prize

Second prize went to Helen Betts of Burton upon Trent with her resourceful 'Slash-a-pillar'.

3rd prize

Third prize goes to Pollie Fenn of Swaffham with her sweet and simple 'Flower box'.

Seventies Styling

By Kat Picot

Marc Jacobs SS 2011

Alberta Ferretti SS 2011

Marks and Spencer womenswear SS 2011

Take inspiration from the catwalk this season as designers embrace the laid-back summer style of the seventies. Team wide, floppy brimmed hats with striking colour palettes as seen in Marc Jacobs' SS11 collection. The high street has responded with floating florals, paisley prints and covetable crochet pieces. The look is relaxed retro with a touch of glamour.

Summer reads

This month Kat Picot delves into the world of 'Knit lit'.

Miss Marple and Mystery: The Complete Short Stories

The grand dame of murder mysteries takes centre stage in this fantastic collection of over 50 short stories to be enjoyed time and time again. An amateur sleuth and an excellent knitter, Miss Jane Marple is often underestimated because of her appearance and age, but don't be fooled! She will draw you in to her world as she solves the mysteries one clue at a time, knitting at her side. An okie but a goodie!

Author: Agatha Christie

RRP: $14.99

Published by Harper Collins

ISBN: 978 0 00728 418 4

Knit Two

If you loved the Friday Night Knitting Club then you'll adore the latest title from Kate Jacobs. The sequel follows the knitters as they move on from their loss and move forward to new adventures. Events see the much loved characters reunite in Italy where a journey of self-discovery begins for each of them with the continued 'pattern support' from their friends back in New York. A tale of love and friendship brought together by knitting.

Author: Kate Jacobs

RRP: $6.99 Published by Penguin

ISBN: 978 0 34091 848 7

Unraveled: A Knitting Mystery

The latest instalment in the Kelly Flynn murder mystery series sees financial consultant Kelly nursing a broken heart after a recent love split. A friend offers a distraction in the form of her new real estate client, Fred. Fred does indeed present a distraction for the lovesick knitter when Kelly discovers him murdered at his ranch. Typical! The intuitive knitter sets to unravelling the clues surrounding Fred's untimely death, taking her on a thrilling new adventure. Recreate aspects of the story with a recipe and knitting pattern from the book. A fab hard back read from Maggie Sefton.

Author: Maggie Sefton

RRP: $15.41 Published by Berkley Publishing

ISBN: 978 0 42524 114 1

The Wedding Shawl: A Seaside Knitters Mystery

There is marriage and murder in the air at Sea Harbor in the latest instalment of the Seaside Knitters mysteries. With two cold cases to solve there promises to be twists and turns at every corner. A delight for returning readers of previous Seaside Knitters titles, you'll feel like you're catching up with old friends. Plus, you get the pattern for the beautiful wedding shawl and even some wedding feast recipes included at the end too!

Author: Sally Goldenbaum

RRP: $15.41 Published by New American Library (NAL)

The Knitting Diaries

This charming collection of short stories is a great read for those short on time. Bite size, heart-warming tales from prolific writers Debbie Macomber, Susan Mallery and Christina Skye with a knitting vein running through. Stories include Knitting is a passion: Coming Unraveled, a racy little number charting the romance between faded Broadway actress Robyn and smoldering Texan, T.J. Or for something a little more wholesome try Knitting is a way of life: The Twenty-First Wish. This tale follows on from Debbie Macomber's popular Blossom Street stories. Knitting is a comfort: Return to Summer Island follows Caro McNeal, welcomed into a knitting community after a harrowing car accident, making you feel all warm and fuzzy.

How to Knit a Heart Back Home: A Cypress Hollow Yarn

Here's the beautifully written, heart-warming tale of Lucy Harrison. The kind-hearted heroine works in a sleepy local bookstore by day and bravely volunteers for fire department in the evening. Enjoying a quiet life in the small town of Cypress Hill, things quickly turn upside down with the arrival of Owen Bancroft. Nothing like a brooding bad boy to get the leading lady all of a flutter! The usually fearless Lucy is un-nerved by the possibility of a romance but soon finds herself and Owen thrown together after the exciting discovery of lost works of a local knitting legend, Eliza Carpenter. Is Lucy prepared to take the biggest risk of all?

If you find yourself wanting more after turning the last page you can knit up garments featured in the story with the pattern included at the back of the book. What a treat!

'A haven for knitters' was the vision I had in mind when the opportunity to move into a much bigger shop arose a year ago. Liss Woods had been in business for three years but had clearly outgrown its small, cosy premises.

Many thought I was mad to move to huge premises in the teeth of the worst retail recession in decades, but as a keen knitter I was convinced that a spacious, well-stocked wool shop would attract customers from near and far.

One year on and I'm very happy with the outcome. Business has grown strongly and word is spreading. It seems that knitters love the big range of well over 1,000 yarns and patterns, and the two big comfy sofas in the middle of the shop are occupied by knitters chatting about their shaired interest. Husbands also appreciate the sofas as they can sit patiently with a magazine while their wives browse!

It's not unusual for someone to drive an hour to get here and spend a couple of hours or more browsing through yarns, patterns, books and accessories. I always put the kettle on for them and knitters seem to love the unhurried, relaxed approach to shopping. Many refer to it as "me" time and liken it to the relaxation that comes with a facial or a visit to the hairdresser.

I run lots of workshops throughout the year and each week there are several Knit & Natter groups. These all add to the sense of community that now surrounds the shop and makes it so welcoming to knitters who seem to feel so at home here.

Having such a big range of yarns and patterns allows me to serve the needs of beginner and experienced knitters as well as the budget conscious and more indulgent knitters. I love to see new people taking up knitting and I always welcome new knitters to the shop and make myself available for picking up the odd dropped stitch or giving advice.

At the heart of Liss Woods is a passion for customer service, whether it's those big comfy sofas, sourcing yarn for a very odd pattern or just putting the kettle on and making the time for a chat.

Book reviews

This month's selection of knitting books to inspire you. By Katy Evans

Entrelac

By Rosemary Drysdale

£16.99

Published by Sixth & Spring Books

ISBN 978 1 93609 600 8

Entrelac may not be everyone's cup of tea, but if it is your thing then this is a great book to learn techniques and further your knowledge. It has more than 65 stitch patterns in the opening 'glossary' and 25 original designs, including socks, pillows, bags, a poncho and blankets. It also shows how you can incorporate entrelac into lace, cables, felting, colourwork and more. Lots of bright, colourful photos show off this interesting technique.

Knitting Vintage

By Claire Montgomery

£16.99

Published by Carlton Books

ISBN 978 1 84732 734 5

Retro inspired knitting has been popular for a while now so it's no surprise there has been a steady stream of pattern books inspired by and reinventing vintage knitwear. In Claire's book each chapter covers a decade (from the 1920-80s) and includes a condensed history of that era, along with mood boards, key themes and four patterns. The patterns are much as you would expect, though there's a couple of stand out garments – the flopper style top and 50s style 'New Look' lace dress are gorgeous.

Loop-d-Loop Lace

By Teva Durham

£19.99

Published by Stewart, Tabori & Chang

ISBN 978 158479 834 7

The latest in Teva Durham's Loop-d-Loop series focuses on lace – although in true Teva style it's not all traditional lace motifs, instead she mixes it up using chunky yarns and bright colours and playing with shape and structure to challenge perceptions of lace and its genre. There are some patterns that use traditional lace attributes such as light weight yarns in corisoles and shrugs, but it's the more unusual ones where Teva comes into her own, and with 30 patterns included here, you're spoilt for choice on where to start.

Baby Booties

By Caroline de Hugo

£9.99

Published by Murdoch Books

ISBN 978 174196 971 9

This super cute book from Caroline de Hugo features 18 patterns for baby booties aged three to twelve months. With a surprising amount of different styles such as Roman sandals, pirate boots, ballerina shoes, espadilles, princess shoes and sweet and simple Mary-Jones, there are plenty to choose from for boys and girls. Beautifully styled photographs show off each project and both the book and the booties make lovely gifts.

Knitshop Cotton Plied Wool Yarn

This cotton and wool blend is a great yarn for all seasons. It feels like a soft cotton but also has warmth from the wool element and is perfect for sensitive skins and baby garments. It knits up with lovely clear stitch definition, good elasticity and a soft sheen. The tension comes out at 24 sts to 10cm using 4mm needles, which gives a firm and even knit that is light to handle and wear. Knitshop will recommend suitable patterns to support the yarn. Cotton Plied Wool Yarn is available in eight solid shades and six multicoloured shades, the sample is shown in Light Green. Hand washing is recommended.

KnitPro™
FOR THOSE WHO LOVE TO KNIT

We ♥ Pete!

I've been reading Knitting Issue 87, this was to be the first of many. My mum always knitted me jumpers, cardigans and shawls. I tried but didn't really take a big interest when I was younger.

My son is now 20 and I've never knitted anything for him - I've never even thought about it, even though I wasn't earning a great deal.

Having read Issue 87, I would love to brush up on my skills and knit a Pete the Penguin for my nephew's baby daughter, Mia.

I wanted to write, if only to let others know that it's never too late to learn a new skill.

Knitting for Bliss

On opening Issue 88 of Knitting magazine I read through the page about Bliss. Oh to my delight they have launched Bliss Crafts. I eagerly read on thinking 'Oh brilliant!', then to my disappointment learnt that it was internet based. Not having access to a computer this disheartened me. I have been knitting for my local neonatal unit at Royal Cornwall hospital in Truro for three years now. I think it's a shame that I can't join Bliss Crafts just because I don't have a computer. Everything nowadays is computer lead, luckily we don't need one to knit the jockets, hats and blankets for those special babies we all care about.

Thanks so much for campaigning for Bliss for yet another year.

K. Barbery,
St Austell

Ed's reply

Please don't be disheartened! The reality is that the use of computers and the Internet enables charities such as Bliss to maximize awareness of their cause in a fast, effective and, most vitally for a non-profit organisation, an economical way. This should not in any way lessen the contributions of knitters such as your self who may not be signed up to online initiatives because the online site is just one medium used to spread awareness of the campaign. Knitting readers have regularly and very generously given up their time and yarn for the Tiny Tots campaign as a result of reading an emailed newsletter, an article from a magazine, heard about it through friends or seen one of the collection boxes located in shops all over the UK. We hope you continue to contribute to Bliss Crafts, it's very much appreciated.

Knitting group success

I would like to tell you all about our fantastic knitting group. We are Stourbridge Sticks & String and we are based in the Black Country in the West Midlands. Last March we began with half a dozen members meeting at a local pub. Prior to this there had been a meeting over coffee for a couple of us. Through Ravelry, word of mouth and some advertising our group has now grown considerably. We now meet every other Friday from 2 till 5pm. We have our own very active Ravelry group with 18 members and have just hosted our very first Saturday knitting meeting.

We had 20 members at a recent Saturday meeting with food and drink available, free patterns, magazines to peruse, yarn to fondle and three door prizes to be won. The afternoon went really well and there are plans for more later in the year.

I would recommend anyone to join a local knitting group and if you don't have one then why not start one?

Our knitting group means so much to all of us. We have made new friends, shared experiences, knilt for charity and the meetings always end far too quickly. Our membership now stands at about 24 and is still rising.

Hooray for our knitting group and all others around the world! Go on give it a go, we know that you will like it.

Sara Nixon, via email

Slash success

What do you give the girl who has everything? Really, really, very bright fingerless gloves for her to use when riding her bike back from work in the evenings! My friend was delighted with her unique present and in the process I used up some of my stash left over from making mascots, raising money for the lifeboats last month. It didn't take long as I used one of the magazine's patterns and improvised a bit to suit my wool.

Keep up the good work! Our knitting group loves reading other knitters' stories and discovering new patterns.

Ellane Millard, Southampton, via email

Buttoning up

When I'm knitting baby clothes I always work button holes on both front bands. When I know which side I want to put the buttons on I sew over the button hole on that side. It is easy to draw the edges of the unwanted buttonhole together. This not only positions the buttons accurately but also allows for the buttons to be removed and put on the other side, should the garment be passed down to a baby of the opposite sex.

Cat Knit

Battersea Dogs & Cats Home is calling on animal lovers and keen crafters to knilt toy mice for the charity's feline residents.

Summer is traditionally the busiest time for the world famous cats and dogs home, and the Battersea cattery can be caring for up to 200 cats at any one time. Cats that would normally be placed in new homes in days can take months to find a permanent home during the summer period, and the Battersea team want to make the animal's stay as enjoyable as possible, which is why they're calling on your help with their Cat Knit campaign.

Lauren O'Connell, founder of Stitch London, says, "Cat Knit is the perfect way to show your support for Battersea by purr-ling for pets that need something to keep them occupied while they wait for new homes. Most knitters have got a bit of spare yarn around that would be perfect for a bit of mouse making for moggies... There are tons of easy patterns out there too so even beginners can stitch up something."

As well as knilted mice, Battersea cats also enjoy playing with woolly sticks, and the Home also needs knilted blankets for the cats and knilted coats for the dogs during the winter months. Patterns are available via the Battersea website.

Better known as a dog refuge, the world famous animal charity has been taking in cats since 1883 and cares for around 3000 each year. They reunite lost dogs and cats with their owners; when they can't do this, they care for them until new homes can be found for them; and they educate the public about responsible pet ownership. Battersea Dogs & Cats Home receives no central government funding and is reliant upon the generosity of the public's donations and legacies.

To find out more about Cat Knit, request a free knilted mice or woolly stick pattern, and to find out where to send your knilted gifts, please visit www.battersea.org.uk or call 020 7627 9234.

week in the life of...

Heather Webb

Biodiversity officer

As told to Shannon Denny

Heather Webb works for a coalition of government, local authority and environmental NGOs called BedSLife, and together with Laura Downton from the Wildlife Trust she's at the heart of an innovative scheme called the Nude Ewe. The maintenance of British grasslands has depended on animals grazing on them for centuries. Without grazing, the grasslands would turn to scrub and an important habitat for many species of plants and animals would be lost. Nude Ewe participants use heritage sheep breeds to graze grasslands for nature conservation, and markets the yarn spun from their wool to finance shearing, fence mending and medical treatment.

The week is off to a running start in a meeting with Laura. She matches up owners of pasture that need grazing with owners of livestock that need pasture, and she's just organised for a flock of Shetland sheep to graze on a site in north Bedfordshire. If the fleeces are chemical-free we'll ask the owner if they'd like to participate in the Nude Ewe.

Landowners often ask advice about breeds, so we field a new information request. This gives us an excuse to pore through the Grazing Advice Partnership's Breed Profiles Handbook and the Rare Breeds Survival Trust website. We recommend a few that we don't have in our project – in part because we think the wool will be nice!

Tuesday

Fly strike is a horrible disease where flies lay their eggs in fleece and maggots bury into the sheep's body. Shearing removes the fleece so the flies can't lay eggs, but when it's cold we have to treat before shearing since the sheep need their coats for warmth. I spend the day diving into a pen, pulling out lambs one by one and hoisting them over a fence so the Wildlife Trust manager can administer treatment to their fleeces.

This physical aspect is a cool part of the job. During lambing season in March and April, I have to be available 24/7 in case ewes need help. However since most conservation grazing is done with heritage breeds that evolved in tough conditions, the ewes normally manage fine on their own. In June shearing starts, a huge outdoor operation that involves collies, stockpeople and a shearer. It's an exhausting but rewarding all-hands-on-deck job.

Wednesday

One of our flock owners has bagged 20kg of fleece, so I fill out an order form for the mill and process the owner's declaration that the fleeces haven't been treated. A courier collects the wool, which we'll see again in eight weeks after it's been spun.

Later on I trawl the net for interesting stories about sheep, wool, grassland habitats and conservation grazing to disseminate through the Nude Ewe Twitter account, then set up the following day's story for our blog. Last but not least I go onto online forums to see if anyone's messaged me about new projects made from our wool.

Thursday

A batch of wool arrives in big boxes from the mill, and there's much oohing and aahing in the office as we squeeze, sniff and admire it.

I design labelling in the form of hall hands, printing out what seems like a million before heading to the Wildlife Trust to chop them on a guillotine. Back at my office I spend ages wrapping them around the balls and hanks. Finally I update our website, blog, Facebook page and Twitter feed to let everyone know the new stock is now for sale.

Friday

I've been asked to give a talk to university students on social enterprise as well as a presentation at a grassland conservation event, so I spend several hours preparing. We also do talks at spinning guilds and countryside groups – whoever will listen happily.

We've sold out of one batch of wool, so I bill the Wildlife Trust for the spinning, and they cut a cheque to the grazier for the profits on a per-ball basis. We send several hundred pounds to our Wensleydale owner, who plans to use the money maintaining the old Damsun orchard where her sheep live.

Saturday

I'm a member of the Guild of Long Draw Spinners, a guild that practices this more ancient but less well-known spinning technique. I'm preparing to spin a ton of Herdwick fleece. Herdwick is traditionally rug wool, so I'm going to make a runner for my home. I get in touch with our Herdwick contact who is chuffed to bits that his sheep are going to grace my stairs. As payment, I agree to do a demo at his Open Farm Sunday event. I'm happy to do it, as it'll bring me that much closer to a lovely stair runner!

Sunday

A knitter since childhood, I spend most evenings up to my elbows in a project. I've promised a cardie for a colleague, so I take advantage of the weekend to get cracking – using some of North Ronaldsay 'Ron' wool from Nude Ewe, of course. ●

CLARE KELLY TALKS TO CURATOR KAREN VAN
GODTSENHOVEN AHEAD OF A GROUNDBREAKING KNITWEAR
EXHIBITION AT ANTWERP'S FASHION MUSEUM

If you have a hard enough time curating your own stash of yarn, spare a thought for Karen Van Godtsenhoven, one of the curators of Unravel - Knitwear in Fashion at MoMu in Antwerp.

The exhibition, which opened in March, runs until August and will feature the work of the most high profile knitwear designers of the past (think Elsa Schiaparelli) and, rather excitingly, garments from some of today's hottest designers including Mark Fast and Sandra Backlund.

One of Sandra's creations graces the exhibition's flyer, an image which originally appeared in hip title, Another Magazine in 2009 and shows actress Tilda Swinton in a sculptured knitted dress. If you're planning make the decision? "We make a selection from pieces we want on loan from designers and other museums, then we have to check if they are available," says Karen.

In addition to the designers already mentioned, the list of works on display reads like a who's who of fashion. Expect Giorgio Armani, Chanel, Jean Paul Gaultier, Missoni, Alexander McQueen and Pringle. Not only that but those lucky enough to visit MoMu will see pieces on loan by some of the top museums in the world, conveniently all under one roof.

It's enough to push excited knitters to the point of hysteria and this is just the start of it, as Karen explains: "Putting together an exhibition is so much more than looking for clothes and placing them on mannequins. There is, of course, the whole research process a visit to the exhibition, you'll have a chance to see Sandra's work, though perhaps not Tilda herself, up close. So just how did the exhibition materialise, if you'll excuse the pun?

EXPECT GIORGIO ARMANI, CHANEL, JEAN PAUL GAULTIER, MISSONI, ALEXANDER MCQUEEN AND PRINGLE

Karen talks of life behind the doors of the museum: "Knitwear had been a favourite subject of Kaat Debo, the director of MoMu for a long time, but through talks with the two curators, myself and Emmanuelle Dirix, it seemed like the time was ripe for a large knitwear show. We then further developed the concept of 'unravelling the status of knitwear in high fashion'. We are aiming to show how fashionable knitwear is, and what an artistic form of expression knitting has been through the ages, not just as a hobby."

Choosing whose work to feature must be tough, so how did Karen and Emmanuelle before, as well as the writing of the catalogue. Backstage we build, drill, paint and construct so many things, to make everything look like it was always there."

Flexibility is a key quality when curating an exhibition of this scale with Karen and Emmanuelle working on a range of tasks leading up to the big launch. Tasks of which will come as news to those of us without curatorial experience.

"Apart from the clothes, installations, couriers and transport," says Karen "there are often unexpected collaborations with industry or with local groups, which grow in an organic way. For Unravel, we had sponsorship from Woolmark, which put us in contact with yarn manufacturers. Through the designers I found the last Belgian knitting family firm, Cousy, who produced knitted parts of the scenography (exhibition design) with the yarns. We also worked together with knitting design artist, Bauke Knotmerus and we organised street knitting with local knitting groups. Our work is never 'just' the exhibition."

WE ARE AIMING TO SHOW HOW FASHIONABLE KNITWEAR IS, AND WHAT AN ARTISTIC FORM OF EXPRESSION KNITTING HAS BEEN THROUGH THE AGES, NOT JUST AS A HOBBY."

It certainly sounds like a very expensive affair and you might wonder how much it costs to stage an exhibition. Sadly Karen cannot reveal the amount that has been spent, however she admits: "Yes, it costs a lot since this is not the typical 'garments behind the glass' exhibition space you may have seen before. For each exhibition, our space will be rethought completely as we try to find an original, exciting and visually strong way of exhibiting garments and the themes."

Prior to the exhibition, each garment is stored in a special room in the museum, called 'The White Box' and it is here that they are prepared to be displayed on the mannequins. Each item requires much care and attention especially when you consider the value and age of the pieces on display. One such garment, a 17th Century men's cardigan is not only the oldest but also the most valuable in the exhibition.

"There are other very valuable pieces such as the Schiaparelli trompe l'oeil jumpers, Jean Patou sweaters, and other historical pieces that are very rare," explains Karen. "But contemporary knitwear can be very valuable too, looking at the sculptural pieces by Sandra Backlund and Kevin Kramp, which consist of lots of different and 'pure' materials. Then consider as well, a lot of manual work and time – and these pieces become very costly indeed."

Karen is no doubt an experienced curator who knows what to expect and, crucially, knows what to do when the unexpected happens but that doesn't mean she is immune to nerves before an exhibition opens. "I do get nervous and slightly worried. Although everything always works out in the end, there are also very many last minute problems and small crises in the run-up to the opening. Last minute actions such as lighting can change the whole outlook a lot," says Karen.

Learning to let things go is, Karen would argue, a crucial element of curating and of course, once visitors start to appear (the museum anticipates more than 40,000 for Unravel) surely it's all been worth the stress?

Karen reveals: "Of course, there is always a feeling of relief after such a long build-up of tension, and when you see enthusiastic visitors and groups coming to see the show you've been working on for so long (which has then finally materialised into something real) that's a great fulfillment. But then, once it's open, you also see the faults since you have a bit more distance from it. At that time you just have to learn about them, as there's nothing you can do about it anymore. Then, it's on to the next show!"

Seeing the exhibition, you might wonder how they managed to fit it all in but actually Karen wasn't able to accommodate all of the themes she had originally hoped. Menswear and utility knitting had to go to make room for the rest but, as Karen says: "The exhibition has changed from the original plan in the sense that many things have had to go out, because we had too many groups and silhouettes for one exhibition. Knitwear is such a recurrent theme with so many designers, that it's very hard to make a small selection."

The catalogue however, edited by Karen's colleague Emmanuelle Dirix, is a mammoth task in itself with 192 pages devoted to the world's finest knitwear and thankfully covers those themes unable to feature in the exhibition. Published by Lannoo and the Fashion Museum, it is the next best thing to seeing the exhibition for yourself.

Behind the scenes, Karen and Emmanuelle are also joined by a team that includes "scenographer Bob Verhelst, the press team and of course a large number of people that actually produce the show; the people who form our collection department and handle the pieces from our own collection and the loans from the designers," says Karen. Designers are, Karen admits, "very excited to see their work in the exhibition. If they cannot make it in person, they will often ask to see the pictures."

Seeing the photos, one can only begin to imagine the time and skill involved in pulling all the threads of such an exhibition together. It is only by seeing Unravel in real life that we can truly appreciate the work that Karen and her colleagues have undertaken to ensure knitting remains on the global map. ●

Knitting by numbers

- The exhibition space is around 1,200 square metres
- Around 100 pieces of unique knitwear are on display
- One item, a men's cardigan is more than 400 years old
- Visitor numbers are expected to exceed 40,000
- Unravel comprises 11 themed areas including 1920s knitwear and sculptural knitwear

Exhibition highlights

- Multicoloured silk knit evening dress by Antwerp designer Ann Selaens
- Knitted baseball boots; 'The Style Supermarket' by Angelo Figue
- Large scale knitted pieces by Bauke Knottnerus
- Sweaters by Jean Patou
- Two piece Elsa Schiaparelli bathing suit from the 1920s

Unravel - knitwear in fashion runs until 14 August 2011. More information can be found at www.momu.be Please note the museum is closed on Mondays. Visit <http://visit.antwerpen.be> for more on Antwerp including tourist information and accommodation.

Knitting garments with steeks

Fiona Morris shows you how to knit in the round using steeks to stitch, cut and finish your garment.

Some garments, particularly those knitted in two-colour stranded techniques such as Fairisle, are much easier to work knitted in the round. However once you get to the armholes and neck shaping, if these were worked in the usual way, you would have to start working back and forth rather than in the round. Steeks, or extra stitches, are a way of continuing to work in the round while working shaping in a garment. Using the tank top I have designed as an example (page 26) I will explain how you can make a garment in the round with steeks.

The tank top is started at the waist, casting on the number of stitches required for knitting in the round. A tip that can help when joining cast on stitches in the round: cast on one extra stitch, check the cast on edge is not twisted and then slip the last stitch cast on onto the needle in front of the first stitch cast on and pass this first stitch over the last stitch to join the round. Continue knitting the garment as given in the pattern until you reach the armhole shaping.

Before starting to knit the last round before armhole shaping, check the number of stitches that need to go onto a thread for the underarm; the pattern may tell you how many stitches either side of the side seam stitch marker. Knit the last round stopping the required number of stitches before the beginning/end round stitch marker. Slip the underarm stitches onto a stitch holder or smooth contrast colour thread to be picked up later when knitting the armbands. Cast on the stated number of stitches e.g. 9 sts using the single thumb twist or backword loop method of casting on. If you are knitting a plain round just use the colour you are knitting with. If you are knitting a patterned round cast on in alternate colours start with the main (background) colour (see image 1).

Knit across the Front to the same number of stitches before the side seam marker as you worked to previously. Slip the underarm stitches onto a thread and cast on 9sts for the steek. Knit across the Back to the cast on stitches for the first steek. The steek stitches are usually knitted in alternate colours with the edge stitches worked in the main colour. They can either be worked to give a vertical stripe pattern or an alternating pattern as shown in image 2.

I find it helpful to use stitch markers to mark the beginning and end of each steek and another colour marker to mark the first/last complete pattern repeat. Image 2 shows navy blue stitch markers marking the steek and a blue safety pin marker fixed into the steek to remind me where the beginning/end of the round is.

A v-neckline will be started a few rows after the start of the armhole shaping. To start the v-neck you need to know which is the centre front stitch (marked by a safety pin stitch marker). Knit across to one stitch before the marked stitch and slip the next 3 stitches onto a stitch holder. You now need to cast on stitches for the front neck steek e.g. 7 sts. Again the stitches will be worked in alternate colours with the edge stitches being in the main colour.

For further images see page 48

3. Knitting completed and centre stitch of each steek basted with navy yarn.

2. Armhole steek knitted in alternate colours with stitch markers

4. Sewing down the centre of the stitch next to the marked stitch ▶

5. Cutting the centre steek stitch

6. Working a knit pick up through the main colour stitch

Continue knitting in the round and working the armhole and neckline decreases either side of each steek. In the tank top pattern I used a right sloping decrease (k2tog) before the steek stitches and a left sloping decrease (ssk) after the steek stitches but you can reverse these decreases if you want a softer line at the decrease points. Once you reach the top of the garment you need to cast off the steek stitches and put the shoulder stitches onto stitch holders or threads (see image 3).

The next step is to mark the centre stitch of each steek ready for machine sewing. Use a contrast colour smooth yarn to work a basting stitch down each centre steek stitch as shown in Image 3. This basting stitch acts as a guide when machine stitching down the steek. You can either machine sew in the gap between the marked stitch and the next stitch over or down the centre of the stitch next to the marked stitch. Image 4 shows me sewing down the centre of the next stitch. If the tank top was knitted in DK weight or thicker yarn I would sew in the gap between the 2 stitches. You need to machine sew with a short straight stitch.

Sew down one side of the steek going over the cast on stitches, then stitch across the bottom edge and up the other side of the steek. At the top and bottom edges make sure you stitch over the edge to hold these stitches when cut. It is easier to see the machine stitching if you look on the reverse side of the knitting so you may want to check you have sewn over all the stitches.

The next step is the scary bit when you have to cut your knitting. Use a sharp pair of embroidery or dressmaking scissors and start cutting down the centre stitch where the basting is (see Image 5). If you cut the stitches with the basting yarn in place you will have a lot of short ends to remove so when I cut I unpick the basting yarn a bit at a time as I cut the stitches.

Once the knitting is cut the steek stitches can be folded to the inside to form a facing. The armholes and neck edge have to be finished with a knitted band. The method I used was to work a knit pick up through the centre of the main colour edge steek stitch as shown in Image 6. Once the band is completed the cut edge can be neaten on the inside by using an ordinary sewing needle threaded with a matching colour cotton and working a herringbone stitch across the cut edge catching the facing to the wrong side of the garment.

If you don't have a sewing machine you can still use steeks and either work a crochet chain through every stitch along the edge of the marked stitch or work hand sewn back stitch making sure you work through every stitch. If you have spent a long time knitting a Fair Isle type garment and are afraid to cut it then try stitching and cutting a plain piece of knitting first or work on a sample piece to give yourself more confidence.

I hope you'll have a go at using steeks and cutting your knitting to make a beautiful Fairisle garment. Try it out on my pattern on page 76. ●

More stash than cash

Sea glass chevron scarf

Even though I know that the sea glass I like to search for on beaches is the result of environmentally unsound habits, I am very pleased that the sea delivers bottles back to us in small, tumbled pieces with smooth, frosted surfaces, soft, organic contours, and in a range of lovely colours.

It was the colours of sea glass (or 'mermaids' jewels' as my friend Marilyn calls it, making it sound like something out of a storybook) that inspired this scarf. Knitting it brought back happy memories of family beachcombing adventures, with my daughter Alice invariably finding more and better pieces of sea glass than anyone else. We kept our collection in a bowl on a sunny windowsill and I think of the seaside every time I see our 'jewels'.

It was after many glances at this bowl that I realised there was also a good number of sea glass colours in my basket of yarn leftovers, and I was inspired to use them up by incorporating them into a scarf using a background yarn that was the remains of an 'I've started but I don't think I'll finish' project, so I didn't have to go out and buy any yarn at all. I decided to use the colours in thin stripes on a neutral, beachy background and to create interest by using a ripple stitch. The wavy, zig-zag lines look wonderful when picked out in different colours and are open to all sorts of colour interpretations and schemes, whether you create a regular repeat or simply create random, varying stripes with a group of colours.

There are many types of ripple and zig-zag patterns, but this one was chosen because it isn't too pointy and angular but more wavy and suggestive of the seaside. It's also very simple and easy to handle and to memorise as it creates its rhythm, like waves lapping on the shore. I could happily knit this ripple pattern over and over again, in different widths and with different stripes and colours, and never tire of watching the lines dance and play and interact with each other.

Extract taken from The Gentle Art of Knitting by Jane Brocket (Collins & Brown).

Size

15 x 175cm

Materials

- 4 x 50g balls of DK yarn in a neutral background colour (A)
- 10g of DK yarn in each of aqua (B), dark teal (C), pale blue (D), ultramarine (E), green (F) and sea-blue (G)
- Pair of 4mm knitting needles
- Knitter's sewing needle

Tension

22 sts and 28 rows to 10cm square over st using 4mm needles.

Note

This is a guide as DK yarns can vary slightly and, because this is not a carefully fitted garment, the tension does not have to be absolutely correct for the scarf to work.

Pattern

With 4mm needles and yarn A, cast on 41 sts.
Row 1 (RS): *K2, m1, k4, sl1, k2tog, pso, k4, m1; rep from * to last 2 sts, k2.

Row 2: K1, p to last st, k1.

Rep rows 1-2, changing yarns in the following sequence:

- 4 rows yarn A
- 2 rows yarn B
- 4 rows yarn A
- 2 rows yarn C
- 4 rows yarn A
- 2 rows yarn D
- 4 rows yarn A
- 2 rows yarn E
- 4 rows yarn A
- 2 rows yarn F
- 4 rows yarn A
- 2 rows yarn G

These 36 rows form the stripe patt.

Rep the patt as set until the scarf is 175cm long, or until you reach the length you prefer.
Cast off.

Finishing

Darn in any loose ends.

Going further with the pattern

Vary the sequence of the B to G contrasting yarns to create a more random effect, or create your own sequence of stripes with as many colours as you like and in whatever thickness of stripes you prefer.

The stitch pattern works in multiples of 13 sts + 2 sts, so you can cast on different multiples to make different-width scarves.

Each additional 13 sts gives 5cm extra width.

Cast on 41 sts, which makes a skinny scarf 15cm wide.

Cast on 54 sts for a 20cm wide scarf.

Cast on 67 sts for a 25cm wide scarf.

For a 50cm wide wrap, cast on 132 sts.

You could make a blanket using strips or scarves that can be knitted and worn separately while you are knitting, then sewn together. ●

Note: Yarn amounts given are based on average requirements and are approximate.

TENSION

22 sts and 28 rows to 10cm over st using 4mm needles

Leaf Panel starting with 22 sts meas 11cm (4.25in).

Use larger or smaller needles if necessary to obtain correct tension.

ABBREVIATIONS

M6 = make bobble - (k1, p1) twice into next st, turn, p4, turn, k4, turn, (p2tog) twice, turn, k2tog (bobble completed).

T2L = twist 2 left - put into back of the 2nd st on LH needle then knit 1st st slipping both sts off needle together.

T2R = twist 2 right - knit into front of the 2nd st on LH needle then purl 1st st slipping both sts off needle together.

Yfwd = yarn forward - bring yarn to front between needles then take yarn over the top of the right hand needle to form a single stitch.

Yon = yarn over needle - take yarn over the top of the right hand needle to form a single stitch.

Yrn = yarn round needle - bring yarn to front between needles then take yarn all the way round the right hand needle finishing at the front ready to work the next stitch.

TIPS

Circle the size you wish to make.

PATTERN NOTES

The number of sts within the leaf panels varies so the usual stitch counts are not always given.

When working the Leaf Patt ALL RS rows begin P9[12/15/18/20/23], and end K0[0/1/1/0/0] and ALL WS rows begin K0[0/1/1/0/0], and end K9[12/15/18/20/23]. The chart shows only the repeated part of the pattern, not the sts at the beg and ends of rows as stated above.

NB: It is also shown in the first size ONLY so add an extra 0[3/5/8/11/14] sts between patt reps for larger sizes.

BACK

Using 3.25mm needles cast on 102[114/124/136/146/158] sts.

Knit 4 rows.

Change to 4mm needles and proceed in patt as folls:

TIPS

You may find it helpful to use st markers to mark beg/end of whole puff reps once you start shaping armholes and v-neckline to help keep track of where you are in the puff rep.

PATTERN NOTES

The garment is knitted in the round using steeks at the armholes and v-neckline using a combination of four traditional Fair Isle patterns, two small five row patts and two larger patts, one of nine rows and one of eleven rows. There are two rounds of st between each patt as shown in Chart. The puff rep is 12 sts wide.

1st size = 20 patt reps. Centre Front st is patt st 12

2nd size = 22 patt reps. Centre Front st is patt st 6.

3rd size = 24 patt reps. Centre Front st is patt st 12.

4th size = 26 patt reps. Centre Front st is patt st 6.

Notes on steeking

The easiest cast on to use for steek sts is the single thumb twist, backward loop cast on which can be worked with the yarn as you are knitting.

When using 2 colours work as folls: k1 yarn A, (k1 yarn B, k1 yarn A) rep. This will give vertical stripes of A and B with A being at each end. On rounds with yarn A only work the steeks in A only as well.

When decreasing just after the steek work ssk and just before the steek work k2tog in the colour of the st that remains.

If possible try to change yarn at side seam points rather than in the middle of the body sections. The Sublime yarn is machine washable so it will NOT 'split and splice'. Start the new yarn leaving an end and weave in the ends to finish.

VEST

Using 2.75mm circular needle and yarn A cast on 240[264:288:312]sts join in a rnd taking care not to twist cast on edge.

Place st marker to mark end of rnd.

Rnd 1: Knit

Rnd 2: Purl

Rep these 2 rnds once more then Rnd 1 again.

Change to 3mm circular needle

Moss Rnd 1: Using B (k1, p1) to end of rnd.

Moss Rnd 2: Using A (p1, k1) to end of rnd.

Rep these 2 rnds 10 times (20 rnds total) then work Moss Rnd 1 again.

Using A rep Rnd 1 and 2 twice for 2 g-st ridges.

Change to 3.25mm circular needle.

Knit 2 rnds placing marker at side seam after 120[132:144:156]sts [opposite end of rnd marker].

Cont working in Fairisle patt as given

In Chart, rep patt 20[22:24:26] times to complete one rnd.

Work 2 whole reps of patt [76 rows] then work to Row 19[19:6].

Shape Armholes

Next rnd: K5[9:6:7:7], place st marker in st below next st on LH needle to mark Centre Front st and cont in patt to last 8[9:10:11] sts. St 15[17:19:21] sts onto holder, cast on 9 sts using backward loop cast on, patt to 8[9:10:11] sts before side seam marker, rep from * to *, patt to end of rnd (ie first group of 9 sts cast on). This is now end of rnd.

Next rnd: Beg colour patt again working all sts in A and B across steek sts [see Knitting Notes]. Cont to foll chart for main patt.

(Use st markers for end of complete reps). Dec 1 st at each armhole edge on next and every alt rnd 3 times.

Shape Front Neck

Next rnd: Dec 1 st at armhole edges, patt to 1 st before Centre Front st. St next 3 sts onto holder, cast on 7 sts using backward loop cast on (if in middle of a colour patt cast on with alt A and B colour) complete rnd. Work one rnd [working Front neck steek sts in off colour].

Cont to dec at armhole edges on alt rnds 8[8:9:10] more times and at same time dec either side of Front neck steek on next and alt rnds 10[11:13] times then every 3rd and 7[9:10:10] times.

Next rnd: K across steek and Front to second steek. Cast off steek sts, k across Back and cast off other steek sts.

Leave Back sts on holder. (Separate these sts into Back neck 37[43:45:49] sts and shoulder 22[24:27:29] sts).

Cut yams.

With WS of Front facing rejoin A.

NB on Row 25 cast off steek sts at Front neck working in all colours as you cast off. Leave Front shoulder sts on holders.

STITCH AND CUT STEEKS

Using contrast colour smooth yarn and blunt tapestry needle baste a line of sts down centre steek st in each steek.

Working on one steek at a time, "either machine st, hand st or crochet down and up centre of st either side of marked st. Using a pair of sharp scissors cut down centre steek st [where basting st is] to bottom of steek." (You may find it helpful to unfasten basting thread before cutting or you will have lots of small pieces to remove). Rep from * to * for rem 2 steeks.

ARMHOLE BANDS

Join Front and Back shoulder sts with grafting, working one row of A sts. Steeks should have yarn A st at each edge.

Using 2.75mm x 60cm circular needle and yarn A beg at bottom of steek, pick up 63[63:76:76] sts up edge of steek, 3 sts across shoulder sts (approx 1 st for 2 rows), 63[63:76:76] sts down edge of steek, k15[17:19:21] sts from holder at underarm. 144[146:174:176] sts.

Next rnd (dec): (P3[3:4:4], p2tog),

12 times, p to sts at steek sts on other side, (P3[3:4:4], p2tog), 12 times, p1 to end of rnd. 132[134:162:164] sts

Next rnd: Knit.

Next rnd: Yarn B [k1, p1] to end of rnd.

Next rnd: Yarn A [p1, k1] to end of rnd.

Next rnd: Yarn B [k1, p1] to end of rnd.

Next rnd: Yarn A. Knit.

Next rnd: Cast off p-wise.

NECKBAND

Beg at top of left side, using 2.75mm circular needle and yarn A pick up and k1 st at grafting row then 63[63:76:76] sts down left edge of steek, 3 sts from holder onto a needle and work s2kpo (place marker below this st), pick up and k63[63:76:76] sts up right edge of steek, 1 st at grafting row k37[43:45:49] sts from holder dec 3 sts evenly spread over these Back neck sts. 163[169:197:201] sts.

Next rnd: Purl 1.

Next rnd: K to 1 st before marker, s2kpo, k to end of rnd.

Next rnd: Using B work in m-st [k1, p1] to marked st (Centre Front) k this st, cont in m-st to mirror first side to end of rnd.

44.5[49:54.5:58]

Next rnd: Using A work in m-st [p1, k1] to st before marked st, s2kpo, cont in m-st to end of rnd.

Rep these 2 rows twice more.

Next rnd: Using A k to 1 st before marked st, s2kpo, k to end of rnd.

Next rnd: Cast off p-wise.

TO FINISH OFF

Weave in ends.

Using a matching coloured cotton thread and ordinary sewing needle work herringbone st over the cut steek edges to neaten.

Wash garment on wool cycle and lay flat to dry patting into shape. ●

For novices and advanced hobbyists alike!

Making Jewellery is the UK's first and best-selling jewellery magazine. We feature more than 30 fully illustrated step-by-step projects to make stylish, fashionable and professional-looking jewellery. There are projects for every skill level, using a variety of techniques from simple stringing to metal clays and lampwork. Making Jewellery offers an innovative approach to jewellery making with insight into the creative minds of leading makers.

It's a small world but we're big on ideas!

The Dolls' House Magazine is Britain's best magazine for dolls' house enthusiasts and collectors. It focuses on dolls' house and miniature projects and period inspiration, particularly Georgian and Victorian. Each month sees a variety of projects, techniques, kit reviews, interviews with makers. It's packed with new products to furnish and decorate your dolls' house, plus money-saving tips, competitions and offers.

Beautiful crafts for your home

Making is the UK's first-ever modern creative craft magazine for the home covering a wide array of craft projects, techniques and topical features. Every issue the reader is given around 30 projects ideas for the wardrobe, kitchen, bathroom, garden and other living areas of their home. Making is essential reading for those seeking inspiration and expertise to create their own style of projects for the home, family celebrations, or to share with friends.

'Slip' up

Q I have just cast on stitches to knit a baby bonnet but I am defeated by the instructions for the first row.

The pattern states:

Row 1 (RS) K1, yo, k5, slip the 2nd,3rd, 4th and 5th sts over the first st, yo; repeat from to last st, k1. How do I slip subsequent stitches over a stitch? I have never seen this instruction in a pattern before!

Jean Barton, by email

A I think perhaps the use of the term 'slip' in the pattern instructions is the cause of the problem. Slipping stitches usually means passing them directly from one needle to another either with the yarn at the back or front of the work but in any case, without knitting or purling them. It looks like what the instructions actually mean is that you should be knitting 5 sts and then using the tip of your right needle to lifting 2nd, 3rd, 4th and 5th sts over the 1st stitch. Do this by inserting the tip of your needle under each of these sts in turn and lifting up, over the 1st needle and finally off the needle. This creates a clustered stitch and gives a slight scallop shape to the cast on edge, which would be perfect for a baby bonnet.

Scalloped edging

Picture this

Q I was wondering if you would be able to help, or suggest someone who might be able to? Many years ago, I had a pattern for a double knit crew neck jumper that had a seal's face on the front. I knitted it for my sister, who is mad about seals and loved it, but after many moves, the pattern was lost. I have tried websites for picture jumpers, but haven't been able to find anything relating to seals. I would love to knit her another, as she was reminiscing about it. Do you know of any website I may not have tried, or of a person or company that could create such a pattern?

Fionna Stewart-Carter, by email

A Unfortunately one of the perils of having a well loved knitting pattern collection is that the only one that goes astray is usually the one you really want to re-knit. The seal sweater you knitted for your sister sounds like a truly unique design but despite a lot of research I haven't managed to find another pattern like it.

BUT I have found a couple of websites that can help you to translate a picture into a chart, which you could then incorporate into a sweater design.

The first option is 'knitpro' (www.microrevolt.org/knitpro) – not to be confused with the knitting needle brand 'KnitPro'. This site translates digital images into knit, crochet, needlepoint and cross-stitch patterns. It's free to use (although you can make a donation) and you simply upload a file from your computer that you'd like converted into a chart. Next, decide whether you'd like it in portrait or landscape format and then click on 'submit'. The chart is generated very quickly and can be saved as a pdf or portable document format file. The second option is 'knitting pattern generator' (www.kpg.sourceforge.net), which can create both straight and 'illusion' patterns that only reveal the picture when viewed at an angle. The program also has a number of other features such as a colour database which can create a list of yarn/thread colours and a knitting pattern template that can be edited in an HTML editor. But if you don't feel that confident altering files or aren't that computer savvy perhaps stick with the first option.

I must admit that I haven't worked with either of them myself so I'm not sure whether it's possible to scale the graphs to the correct proportion for DK weight. I did however have a quick play with 'knitpro', which produced the 'love knitting' graph shown. Hopefully you'll find one of these options helpful, let me know how you get on!

Love knitting graph created by www.microrevolt.org

Stop the shrinkage

Q I was lucky enough to have been given quite a few balls of Rowan Denim knit yarn that apparently shrinks after it's first wash, which needs the work to be knitted larger than required. I would like to use this yarn but not with the shrinkage novelty. If I skein the balls and soak in very hot water and then re-wind it into balls will I be able to use it like a conventional yarn? I hope you can help as I love the fading element of the yarn.

Clare Marsh, by email

A Rowan's Denim yarn is one of my favourite yarns, not only has it been in their range for as long as I can remember but it also very durable. It's designed to age like denim fabric so it will shrink in length but only during its initial wash, after which your garment will remain the same size.

Winding the balls into skeins is a good idea but rather than just soaking them I would machine-wash them at the recommended 60-70° C. This agitation not only helps the shrinking process but also starts to expose the yarn's white inner core getting rid of a lot of loose dye and therefore beginning the lovely 'ageing' process. Thread several ties around each skein in a figure of 8 formation and secure with a knot to avoid the yarn tangling during the wash. Once the yarn has been removed from the washing machine, allow to dry thoroughly before winding it into balls. After washing the yarn has a stocking stitch tension of 20 sts and 32 rows to 10cm when knitted on 4mm needles so keep this in mind when selecting patterns along with its metreage of 100m/109 yards per 50g ball. ●

PURL About TOWN

Laura 'Purl Princess' Parkinson dusts off her hats for the wedding season and gets all sentimental over handmade touches.

PHOTOGRAPH BY JANE DUFFY

I love a good wedding, who doesn't? Maybe those black-hearted people who never believed in Father Christmas and who take pleasure in watching people fall over?

I never went to a lot of weddings as a kid and in fact it was only after my own wedding in 2008 that people seemed to start getting hitched all over the place. I took this influx of marriages as my opportunity to buy an enormous hat, which I have now managed to wear to three different weddings because the guests were completely different at each. Once guest lists started to cross over I invested in a new, but tiny, hat just to confuse everyone.

individual sewn and crocheted brooches as favours for the ladies, hand-crafted decorations and place settings, and even hand-sewn napkins meant you could really feel the love flowing around the room.

My favourite handmade touch to this wedding was the place settings for the children. Florence had a hand-sewn bag with 'Play with me' embroidered on it with a gorgeous handmade doll and a book inside. This not only kept Flo totally entertained while we enjoyed our dinner, but also made us feel like we were a valued and special part of their day.

It is true that on the run up to the wedding Sarah was completely stressed with all the making she had set for herself, but the magical and personal outcome of the wedding meant that it was totally worth it. For me, it was touching to see how much effort had gone into the celebration when so many weddings these days seem to be exact copies of each other picked straight out of the pages of knittry personality into the day.

A couple of amazing friends baked our wedding cupcakes and lovingly decorated them with sugar flowers, leaves and fruits all painstakingly sculpted and painted by hand.

They were so gorgeous that I have kept a couple of them in a keepsake box so that I can take a peek at them in years to come and bring back all the memories of the day, of the cakes and the bakers themselves. Of course I had to knit myself something to mark the occasion and went for a silk shawl with a simple lace pattern. This is the kind of piece that becomes a family heirloom and I really hope to be able to pass it down one day.

With the Royal wedding this year and wedding season well and truly upon us there will be a lot of hats being dusted off in preparation. The question is, will you be using a hand-sewn or paper napkin? ●

Must knit:

Everyone's gone Royal wedding crazy and if you haven't seen Knit Your Own Royal Wedding by Fiona Goble yet, where have you been? Yes, it's true, you really can knit your own William, Kate, Harry, Charles, Camilla, The Queen and even the Archbishop to u-knit the couple in holy matrimony. Alternatively there's a free pattern for just the happy couple in full wedding regalia available from jameisgail.com

Website:

The ultimate knitted wedding was held on 9th October 2005 and was hosted by the Cast Off knitting group who knitted everything from the dresses to the sandwiches, cameras and disco ball to name but a few. Go to www.castoff.info to see two galleries of photos from the wooliest wedding you'll ever see.

Clearly I get a bit too caught up in hats when it comes to weddings, but the thing that I love most about these celebrations are the little touches and specifically the handmade touches which I think make weddings more memorable, enjoyable and emotional. When an invitation popped through my letterbox that was handmade with a stylish design of ribbons and buttons, it had my friends Sarah and Miles written all over it. I think that's the way it should be; you should always be able to tell who is getting married by the personalised style of the invitation. Therefore, generic white cards with swirly writing do not cut it for me, I'm afraid.

Come Sarah and Miles' wedding day I was continually impressed and actually enchanted by the handmade touches that had gone into the day. Hand-knitted bridesmaid shirrs, a magazine. All the little handmade touches speak volumes to the nature of this couple's love and commitment to each other.

Thinking back to my own wedding I hold the little crafty touches incredibly dear to my heart. I had little bouquets knitted up for my bridesmaids of gold and cream coloured roses. They were a fun spin on the traditional wedding bouquets, doubled up as a memento for the maids and subtly injected some of my

"I think that's the way it should be; you should always be able to tell who is getting married by the personalised style of the invitation. Therefore, generic white cards with swirly writing do not cut it for me, I'm afraid."
